GERMAN ATTACK FORCED BACK ACROSS THE SOMME RIVER

GERMANS CONCENTRATE ATTACK ON BAPAUME

French Troops Come to Aid of British and Germans Are Repulsed With Heavy Loss—Counter Attack of the British Meets With Success and Germans Are Forced Back Across the Somme.

The shell wrecked city of Bapaume, midway along the 50 mile battle front in France, is the chief prize for which the Germans have been struggling during the past 24 hours.

The fifth day of the gigantic German offensive found British resistance stiffened all along the line and the Germans concentrating their pressure in the Bapaume sector amidst the greatest carnage of the war.

With the arrival of the counter-attack stage of the stupendous battle, the German advance was not only slowed up, but south of Peronne the German forces that had succeeded in gaining a lodgment on the western bank of the Somme was hurled back to the eastern side by the powerful British counter thrusts.

On the southern end of the battle zone French troops have reinforced the British, taking over a part of the fighting front.

The British success on the Somme river may imperil the Germans' hold on Peronne if the British are able to follow it up by extending their gains on the eastern side of the stream.

In the fighting around Bapaume the Germans resorted to their usual strategy of attacking the British from two sides, in an effort to compel a retirement by pressure upon their flanks. The initial assaults launched on Sunday were delivered southward from the direction of Croisilles and tremendous pressure was exerted against the British defensive system north of the city. After their repulse in that district the Germans gave up the effort until today when they suddenly switched their pressure to the British lines south of Bapaume.

A small British salient juts into the German front southeast of Bapaume and the Germans evidently hoped to flatten this projection, meanwhile driving in the British defences to the south of Bapaume.

The Germans continue to pour fresh troops into the battle and the bombardments which accompany the infantry operations are of such violence that they can be heard on the British coast.

The Allied lines are being greatly strengthened at menaced points and, according to authentic information received today, the mixed reserve force of British, French and Americans which was formed by the Versailles war council, is being held for a counter thrust against the Germans when the proper moment arrives.

The battle blasted city of Bapaume which is now the scene of heavy fighting was one of the cities given up by the Germans when they made their great retreat in the spring of 1917 from the Somme to the Hindenburg line. It is eighteen miles west of Cambrai and about 13 miles north of Peronne. It has been in the zone of fire since early in the war and had been smashed by the shells which were poured in to it by Allied and German guns. Before the Germans evacuated Bapaume they were reported to have set it on fire, in an effort to destroy it completely. A number of strategic roadways from Arras, Comblès, Peronne, Douai and Cambrai, converge there.

London, March 25.—French troops have reinforced the British on the fifty-mile battlefield in France where the gigantic struggle continues with the utmost violence, according to advices from Paris today, quoting an official communique issued by the French war office.

The heaviest fighting during the past 24 hours has centered around Bapaume where the Germans made determined efforts to storm the British defences. Assaulting waves of Germans were flung forward to the north and south of Bapaume and they suffered extremely severe losses as they came under the machine gun and artillery fire of the British.

The German attacks north of Bapaume were described by Field Marshal Haig in his official advices to the war office today as being "powerful."

They began in the afternoon and continued into the evening but all were repulsed, the war office announced.

German forces that succeeded in crossing to the western bank of the Somme river, south of Peronne, were thrown back across the stream by British counter-attacks, the official statement added.

(Bapaume, which is now the scene of the bloodiest fighting in the battle zone, is about 18 miles west of Cambrai.)

At one point north of Bapaume the Germans succeeded in

PARIS BOMBARDMENT IS STILL A MYSTERY

Descriptions of the Effects of the Shells Do Not Clear It Up, But Add To It—Projectiles Too Heavy to Come From Air, and Fall With Little Force.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 25.—Ambassador Sharpe has transmitted to the state department the following despatch made public in Paris on Saturday night, dealing with the mysterious long range bombardment:

"The enemy has fired on Paris with a long distance gun since 8 a. m., every quarter of an hour and forty of the shells have reached the capital and suburbs. There are ten dead and about fifteen wounded. Means to combat the enemy gun are in course of execution."

Another message reaching here said that it was believed that the German airplanes seen over Paris at a very great height were there to observe the result of the long range bombardment. Officials today were still puzzled over the conflicting reports about the gun which was said to be again in use in Paris today and until official word clearing the mystery is received they are withholding comment.

Paris, March 25.—Paris was still under bombardment today by unseen forces. Shells began falling upon the city before 7 o'clock, but the people remained calm and went about their daily routine as usual.

Responsibility for the daily bombardment is still as much a mystery as ever. The report that a giant German cannon had been located seventy miles from the French capital, has not been confirmed. Many French experts still believe that airmen flying at high altitude were responsible.

Attention was directed today to the fact that the shells have practically no force when they strike the ground and that they seem to fall with slackening speed. At numerous places measurements showed that the shell holes on an average were only about four feet in diameter and two feet deep.

The Bourse resumed operations today in spite of the great German offensive and the activity of the Hun air forces.

London, March 25.—A German U-boat has sunk the American steamship Chattahoochee off the English coast, according to admiralty announcement today. The crew, numbering about 80 men, was saved. The Chattahoochee, according to the vessel's commander, was struck by four torpedoes.

The Chattahoochee was of German construction and formerly was owned by the Hamburg-American Line. She was formerly the Sachsen and registered 8,000 tons. The vessel was taken over by the American government when war was declared against Germany.

gaining a foothold in a British trench system, but were quickly driven out.

"The Germans made powerful attacks north of Bapaume on Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening, but were repulsed," the war office stated.

"Only at one point did the Germans succeed in reaching the British trenches. They were immediately ejected."

"At all other points the attackers were stopped before the positions of the British. The enemy was not only driven back, but lost heavily."

"This morning the Germans renewed their assaults in the Bapaume sector and fresh fighting developed there. A number of the attacks were made south of Bapaume."

"Forces of Germans that had crossed the Somme river south of Peronne between Licourt and Priz, were driven back across the stream by British counter thrusts."

MOST CRITICAL TIME SINCE MARNE BATTLE

American Officers in France Speak Plainly of the Crisis in the War So Folks at Home May Realize Need of Greater Effort.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With The American Army in France, March 25.—American army officers declared today that the present situation on the western front is the most critical confronting the Allies since the battle of the Marne. They do not expect Verdun.

These officers pointed out the necessity for plain speaking now so that the people at home can realize that every effort is necessary on their part in order that the foe may be beaten.

The German announcement of the capture of Peronne and Ham was received by the Americans yesterday afternoon. Coupled with the announcement that the enemy was again bombarding Paris it was felt that the Kaiser was making his supreme effort to end the conflict before the United States could actually get a huge force into the field.

American officers pointed out that the Germans are ready to sacrifice enormous numbers of troops in order to force a decision in the west. The enemy, they declared, is trying to batter down the morale of the populace in the rear of the battle line with his air raids and long range bombardments at the same time that he is trying to break through the front.

The initial success of the Germans does not surprise Americans, who have been taught that either side can advance a certain distance and capture men and guns during the first few days of a drive. But the real fruits of the operations must result during the secondary phase of the offensive when efforts are made to follow up the first successes.

The fact that the Germans heavily outnumbered the British is regarded as complimentary for the skill of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, as the indications were that the Germans intended to strike in the Cambrai sector in a possible effort to make the British reinforce that part of their line by withdrawing troops from the north thus leaving the Channel ports exposed. Instead the British maintain a careful balance of strength along their front, holding a strategic reserve force.

As the result of the examination of applicants for military service which was held by the recruiting officer at the armory last week, Henry Bauer was accepted for service in the Field Artillery and W. A. Zeilman was accepted for service in the Hospital Corps.

Two applicants whose names were not secured were rejected for army service because they were under age. John Schwenck was rejected by the naval recruiting officer at the post office because he was under weight. He will return for re-examination later.

On Wednesday the army recruiting officer will be at the armory to enlist applicants for all branches of the service, particularly bricklayers, quarrymen, sawyers and lumbermen. He will enlist applicants for active military service who are under the age of 21 years and over the age of 31 years.

The naval recruiting officer will be again at the post office to receive applicants for naval service on Friday.

"SUNNY" FRANCE ALWAYS CLOUDY

Corporal Singer Doesn't Like the Rain, Mud or Railway Facilities—Only Paris is Worth While.

Somewhere in France, Feb. 22, 1918.

Dear Sirs:—Received your paper and thank you very much for it. There is some good reading in it. That is a good one I have read about Adit and the squad. They are talking about the hard life they are having. I wish they could come to France and have a taste of this. The people call it "Sunny" France, but the sun shines about once every six months. It rains two and three days at a time. The streets look like they have spread cement all over it. The only place I saw was any good in France was the capital. I haven't spent much time there because I had to guard a general prisoner which took us three days to get to the place where I wanted to go. It was only about 500 miles. They have an awful poor railroad system. They have the cars divided in classes, first second and third class, and when they move a regiment they put 35 to 40 men in a box car half of the size of the box cars in the states, but we have to put up with it. Close with regards to dear old Kingston.

Yours truly,

ments at the same time that he is trying to break through the front.

American and French artillery experts are keenly interested in the official French report that Paris had been shelled by a long range German gun.

The feeling is prevalent that a critical period is at hand and all the Americans are hoping to get into action.

The initial success of the Germans does not surprise Americans, who have been taught that either side can advance a certain distance and capture men and guns during the first few days of a drive. But the real fruits of the operations must result during the secondary phase of the offensive when efforts are made to follow up the first successes.

LIEUT. CAREY MEETS COL. LEROY ELTING

Also Enjoys Kingston Cigars "Over There" and Appreciates News From Home Contained in Letters and The Freeman.

Ex-sheriff Henry J. Hoffman, the John street tobacconist, has received an interesting letter from Lieutenant Eugene B. Carey of this city from France. Lieutenant Carey was commissioned as army field clerk and is now with the post office establishment of the American Expeditionary Force. He writes:

"The happiest day of mine 'over here' so far was yesterday. Then I received the first box of Peekamooses which I had been out of since January 30. I had been longing for one, having smoked them continuously since 1912, when I started to Sponcers. I opened the box right away and treated the fellows working with me in celebration of the event. We all smoked and once more I felt as though I were back at my desk in the office."

"I received The Freeman to January 23 and read all about the war regulations and how seventeen men in Hoffman's were affected. Even though half of your street lights are out, you do not have it as dark as we have it. Everyone 'over here' uses a pocket flash light, otherwise you could not find your way."

"I sent Doc Smith a post card a few days ago and directed it to the store. I thought that perhaps he was called in the service. Now is that little heard of his coming along? Write me and tell me about current events at 35 John street, so I will not feel now when we are sent back. Every time the mail comes in and find there is nothing for me, after distributing hundreds to the other fellows, I feel a little blue. You fellows have a day a week off now, so you cannot say you are too busy to write."

"I spent an hour yesterday with Colonel LeRoy Elting, whose mother lives on Green street. He surely did receive me fine and we had many pleasant moments together. He has only been in Kingston about three days in the past twenty-five years, but is alive to its people and history."

"I am working in the post office, as I told you when was first situated, so direct my mail to U. S. A. P. O. 706, G. H. Q., A. E. F., France. Also be sure to have it O. K'd by the men in the uptown station before mailing, then it will not be opened in New York city; thus I will receive the package in good condition, lessening the chances of loss."

"Give my regards to all, and trusting everything is all right."

Sincerely,

LIEUT. CAREY MEETS COL. LEROY ELTING

Also Enjoys Kingston Cigars "Over There" and Appreciates News From Home Contained in Letters and The Freeman.

Ex-sheriff Henry J. Hoffman, the John street tobacconist, has received an interesting letter from Lieutenant Eugene B. Carey of this city from France. Lieutenant Carey was commissioned as army field clerk and is now with the post office establishment of the American Expeditionary Force. He writes:

"The happiest day of mine 'over here' so far was yesterday. Then I received the first box of Peabacksmoos which I had been out of since January 30. I had been longing for one, having smoked them continuously since 1912, when I started to Spaulding's. I opened the box right away and treated the fellows working with me in celebration of the event. We all smoked and once more I felt as though I were back at my desk in the office."

"I received The Freeman to January 23 and read all about the war regulations and how seventeen men in Hoffman's were affected. Even though half of your street lights are out, you do not have it as dark as we have it. Everyone 'over here' uses a pocket flash light, otherwise you could not find your way."

"I sent Doc Smith a post card a few days ago and directed it to the store. I thought that perhaps he was called in the service. Now is that little beard of his coming along? Write me and tell me about current events at 39 John street, so I will not feel now when we are sent back. Every time the mail comes in and I find there is nothing for me, after distributing hundreds to the other fellows, I feel a little blue. You fellows have a day a week off now, so you cannot say you are too busy to write."

"I spent an hour yesterday with Colonel Leroy Elting, whose mother lives on Green street. He surely did receive me fine and we had many pleasant moments together. He has only been in Kingston about three days in the past twenty-four years, but is alive to its people and history."

"I am working in the post office, as I told you when was first situated, so direct my mail to U. S. A. P. O. 706, G. H. Q., A. E. F., France. Also be sure to have it O. K'd by the men. In the uptown station before mailing, then it will not be opened in New York city; thus I will receive the package in good condition, lessening the chances of loss."

"Give my regards to all, and 'tasting everything is all right."

"Sincerely,"

"EUGENE B. CAREY."

Lighthouse Light Lighted.

A Talk to Mothers About Croup and Cold Troubles

The New Treatment With Fresh Air and Anti-septic Vapors, that Makes Internal "Dosing," Flannel Jackets, etc., Unnecessary.

Local Druggists Are Offering It on 30 Days' Trial—No Cost If You Are Not Delighted with the Results.

All mothers are "home doctors" when it comes to treating the croup and cold troubles that children are heir to. They know that growing children need outdoor exercise and that, with outdoor exercise, some colds are bound to come. They know, too, that these colds should not be neglected, and yet, constant "dosing" disturbs the delicate stomachs of children.

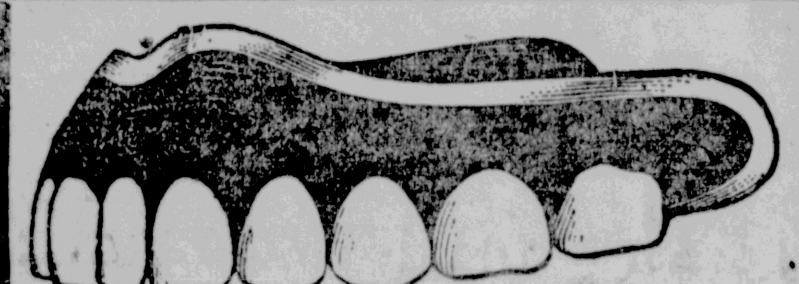

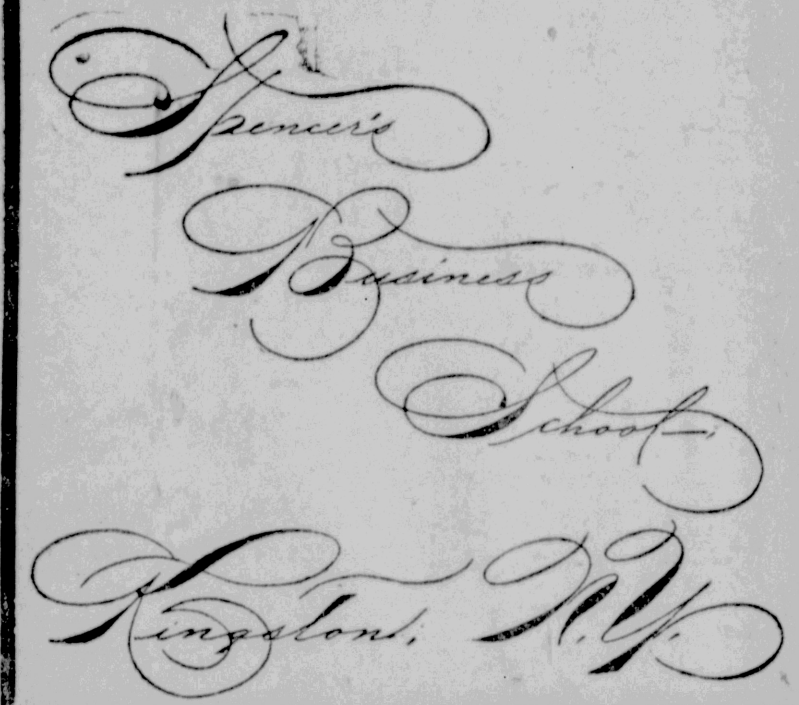

The answer to this problem is the external "vapor" treatment, Vick's VapoRub, for all the many forms of cold troubles, from head colds, asthma or catarrh, down to sore throat, bronchitis or deep chest colds. Just apply VapoRub well over the throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covering loose around the neck so the vapors, released by the body heat, may be freely inhaled. The next morning the head is clear, phlegm loosened and soreness gone. One rubbing with VapoRub usually relieves croup in 15 minutes and an application at bedtime prevents a night attack.

Colds are easiest to stop at the beginning. "Nip them in the bud" by keeping plenty of fresh air in the bedroom and applying VapoRub freely at the first sign of trouble. Your druggist will sell you a 25c jar with the privilege of a month's trial.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years, made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

She led on up to the thrilling and inspiring part Canada is taking in the great war and so prepared the way to the conversation which was to follow. The conversation was introduced by Mrs. R. H. VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are victory menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Tuesday—Meatless Day.

Breakfast.—Sliced oranges, pearl barley, top milk, baked eggs, corn meal gems, coffee.

Lunch or supper.—Cabbage, cheese and onion salad, potato bread, prunes, potato cookies.

Dinner.—peanut fondue, Hongroise potatoes, cold slaw, potato bread, apple charlotte.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

(*May be omitted and the meal still balanced.)

Although it is our least expensive nut, the peanut can readily be used to take the place of others that are more costly. It belongs to the legume family and furnishes the body with building material and energy. When milk is served at the same meal, an even more nutritious dish is procured. Peanuts can be ground and kept in jars to use for variety in scalloped dishes, on salads, and as the main part of the meal in a loaf or fondue. Try this meat substitute dish made of peanuts and milk, on meatless day.

Peanut Fondue. 1 cup peanuts, (shelled), 1 egg, 1 cup bread crumbs, (soft), 1½ teaspoon salt, 1-2 cups milk, Cayenne.

Grind the peanuts in a meat grinder. Mix all the ingredients, folding in the beaten egg white last. Turn the fondue into a buttered pudding dish and bake it in a moderate oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Hongroise Potatoes.

Wash, pare and cut potatoes into 1-3 inch cubes; parboil them 3 minutes and drain them. Add a small amount of butter and bake them until the potatoes are soft and slightly brown. Make a sauce by melting 2 tablespoons of butter and adding 2 tablespoons of flour, 1 cup hot milk and 1 egg. Season it with salt and pepper. Pour the sauce over the potatoes.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Girsch. The club secretary, Mrs. George Ackerman, had charge of the program of games, contests and fortune telling. At 10 o'clock a bountiful supper was served by the hostess. Miss Lena Terwilliger rendered several selections on the piano, and also an old-time song which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Albert Girsch and Seymour Terwilliger each sang a solo. Also a solo by Blanche Terwilliger. All declared if you want good time join a Larkin Club. All voted the hostesses fine entertainers.

Beware of the "Kissing Palm!"

A correspondent tells us of a wonderful plant, called the "kissing palm," which has the curious and sometimes embarrassing effect of kissing all persons who come near it with an irresistible desire to kiss each other. "It is not a bit of good trying to resist its power," he says; "you simply must kiss everybody near you, regardless of age, sex or looks." A dangerous plant this—not at all the kind of thing to have in a respectable house.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Pecans, peanuts or mixed nuts of various sorts, if browned in a very little oil or butter, then sprinkled with mixed spices, make a nice relish.

Lumber Camp Pea Soup.—Wash and soak over night a pint of dried green peas. Put a pound of salt pork on to cook with the peas, with three quarts of water and one minced onion.

Simmer until the peas are tender, about six or seven hours. If put into a fireless cooker, use two quarts of water, set on a hot radiator and cook over night. Rub the peas through a colander, add seasonings of summer savory, sage, salt and pepper. Thicken with two tablespoonsful of flour mixed with a little cold milk; boil five minutes and serve.

The pork may be scored into half-inch pieces, browned and served with mustard.

Sausage Loaf.—Take one and one-half pounds of sausage, one and one-fourth cupfuls of stale bread crumbs, and one egg. Slightly moisten the stale crumbs, beat the egg, combine the two and add the sausage meat, which should be well seasoned. Form into a loaf, dust with dried crumbs and bake three-quarters of an hour.

Ox-Tail Soup.—Slice one onion and fry in a tablespoonful of drippings. Wash and dry the joints of oxtail, but them into the pan with the onion and brown on all sides. Turn the contents of the frying pan into the soup kettle, add a sliced carrot, two stalks of celery, cut fine; parsley, cayenne, salt and pepper to taste, and cover with cold water. Simmer slowly until meat is ready to fall from the bones. Add a cupful of strained tomato and serve.

Taffy Pudding.—Soak a cupful of pearl tapioca over night, well covered with water. In the morning drain and add two cupfuls of light brown sugar and cook in water in the oven three or four hours. Serve cold with cream, flavored with vanilla.

A cupful of ginger ale may be thickened with gelatin and chopped fruit added, making a most dainty salad.

HURLEY.

Hurley, March 25.—The announcement that Raymond Crispell has arrived "over there" announces also the fact that he is the first of the Hurley boys to go across the water.

Miss Lena Smith is visiting her brother, Ray Smith.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the village church held a most enjoyable social at the parsonage last Friday night.

Mrs. Susan and Mrs. Jane Elmen-dorf are visiting at the Ten Eyck home.

Mr. Roemer, who has the stone-yard in Hurley, has the contract for the monument for the Crawford lot in the Marblotown cemetery. He has received lately the rough granite blocks for this monument. One block weighs about five tons and the die block weighs about seven tons. The contract will require over two months to complete.

Miss Marie Newkirk is visiting in Hackensack, N. J., at the home of the Rev. Mr. Von Schleider.

Aubrey Ernst, who is stationed at Camp Wadsworth, S. C., has lately been assigned to the rifle ranges for experience and practice. After a few days' preparation in the use of the army rifle he was assigned to actual rifle shooting. The ranges run from 100 to 300 yards and various conditions are placed upon several opportunities afforded for shooting. At 300 yards range he made a score of 17 out of a possible 30; his total score for the entire series was 117 out of a possible 175; as the army regulations require only 105 points to qualify for marksmanship, he is thus amply qualified; a fine showing for a Hurley boy, with absolutely no previous experience in the use of the rifle.

The drive of the Knights of Columbus for money to carry on their work has reached Hurley village. The success of the drive is manifested by the interest aroused by all. Protestants, Jews as well as those of Catholic faith. All classes should join in the good work which does not interfere at all with the Y. M. C. A. work but gives still further opportunities for the benefit of all men in the army, regardless of belief, color or condition. Help them. At the post office are receipts for any contribution that may be sent there. A beginning has already been made.

A. J. Van Leer, state archivist in state department of education, was in this village Thursday.

TUG MEAD CAME UP WITH A TOW

The Tug Had No Trouble and Met But Little Floating Ice Between This Port and New York—Other River Notes.

The tug Mead of the Cornell Line reached Rondout early this morning with a small special tow of three barges which she had brought up from New York. She left for New York again with a small special tow of six barges. The Mead had absolutely no trouble in getting through and encountered but little floating ice, and that did not give her any difficulty at all.

The regular towing season will shortly open, but just when is not known.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the Poughkeepsie of the Central Hudson Line left New York for Rondout. As there is open water the entire distance she will have no trouble.

There is little, if any, floating ice off Kingston Point.

At Athens a gang of men were busy Saturday getting the steamer Berkshire ready for navigation. Steam was already up in the vessel's boilers.

PUBLIC HEARING ON PARKING CARS

Board of Public Works to Hold it at City Hall the Afternoon of April 5—Proposed Ordinance to be Discussed.

The board of public works has decided to hold a public hearing at the city hall the afternoon of April 5, at 3 o'clock before adopting a proposed city ordinance relating to the parking of automobiles on certain of the city streets. The Automobile Club of Ulster County, the police department, the fire department and other organizations have been notified and undoubtedly will be represented at the hearing. This is a matter of importance to all auto owners and they should make it a point to attend.

CLEAN-UP DAYS NOW ARE HERE

The work of cleaning the macadam streets of the city was started today by the board of public works. The White Wings have also resumed regular hours on the brick pavement. While the street force is busy cleaning up the winter's accumulation of dirt and refuse it would not be a bad idea for householders to get together and have a clean-up week in cleaning up their yards and premises.

NO BEEF OR PORK FOR TUESDAYS

Tuesdays—Beefless and Porkless.

The New York Federal Food Board has ruled under date of March 21: "Hereafter Tuesday will be a beefless and porkless day." The public is asked to use neither fresh, salt nor cured beef, veal or pork, in any form. All restaurants and hotels are forbidden to serve these meats on Tuesday and all retail stores, including delicatessen, grocery and butcher stores are forbidden to sell these meats in cooked form on these days. The use of mutton, lamb and poultry (except hens and pullets) is permitted.

By-products of beef, veal and pork should not be used on Tuesdays, but a small quantity of salt pork may be used in baked beans.

In New York city on Tuesday, March 12, over fifty restaurants and lunch rooms were closed for that day because they had failed to observe meatless days as ordered.

Paternalism in Japan.

The proposed budget for the year for the department of agriculture and commerce of Japan contains some new items for the help of business and industrial men, says the Japan Bulletin. For one thing, the government will nationalize the forests of Hokkaido and manage them for the benefit of various industries which are dependent upon lumber resources. The inauguration of compulsory labor insurance is also planned. Certain industries will be helped by enlarging the government industrial laboratory. The tea industry will be fostered by the creation of a tea laboratory and the establishment of commercial showrooms in important foreign markets.

Beer for the Actors.

Men to whom the matter of beer supply is of importance will more than ever regret the "good old days" when they learn that on play nights at Hampton court, Shakespeare and his fellows were allowed some four and twenty glasses of free beer. One gallon per head daily to the actors, we are told, and extra on the occasion of performances, was the quantity. The adults must really have had even more than this, for let us remember, the female roles were all played by young boys, who certainly could not ship such seas. Their share must have gone to the seniors.—London Chronicle.

Secrets Lost to World.

The people of Easter Island, whatever their remote origin, are now decadent, partly through slavery, partly through migration; a continual exodus and influx of strange peoples, and the consequent mixture of type, have marred what must have been once a fine and gradually civilized race. The conversion of the natives in 1864 to Christianity caused them to abandon all interest in their pagan carvings and writings, so that much of the secret of their former advance life, and must be lost to the world.—Christian Science Monitor Special Australian Correspondence.

HOLDING THE LINE.

It is impossible to predict the duration of the present drive which Germany is making on the European battle front, but while it is taking place she is not neglecting the opportunities in other parts of the world to seize on whatever lands, wealth, governments or individuals will aid in her ambition to bring the rest of the world groveling at the feet of the Kaiser.

Evidently it is the German plan to repeat in a general way the campaign she had planned at the beginning of the war when Belgium and France were invaded. Germany then had planned to strike quickly and capture Paris, then stalk through France to the seacoast, resisting any English army which might attempt to land and also preparing to make an invasion of England, relying on German-made plots of revolution in Ireland to prevent united resistance; then at her leisure overrun the remainder of France, after which she would be ready to dictate to Russia, and by the aid of the subjugated armies and navies of the conquered countries dictate to unopposed America her terms for the Western Hemisphere.

Again she is striking at Paris, but the object in view is necessarily different now because three and a half years have given the Allies opportunity to intrench themselves on the Swiss Alps to the North Sea, a distance of over four hundred miles. To be able to obliterate the British defenses along the front where the drive is now being made would enable Germany to attack both the French and English forces on their flank, and this plan if successful would enable the Kaiser to hang Paris at his scalp-belt along with Petrograd, and open the way for German hordes to hack a pathway toward the French coast ports which, once captured, would prevent further landing on French soil either by the British or Americans.

Somewhere in France there must be a reserve army of at least several hundred thousand American soldiers who have been undergoing intensive training. Only a small sector of the battlefront is being occupied by the soldiers of the United States. Sometimes there has been wonderment expressed by civilians on this side of the Atlantic that American troops were not being brought to more active service against the Hun. Is it not possible that they have been held, meanwhile being trained intensively, as the reserve army which would be used in an emergency such as the present situation seems, and which must have been foreseen? But if the American army does form the reserve, how inadequate it is if the British are unable to hold their line, for Germany, too, must have a reserve army somewhere behind her lines at least equal to the reserve which she has been enabled to withdraw from the Russian front.

The indomitable American spirit which is responsible for our progress has accomplished wonderful results since we entered the war in spite of official incompetence, red tape methods, German propagandists and their unsuspecting tools in all branches of American life, traitorous dollar-chasing at a time of national emergency and the flamboyant spirit often before remarked which fondly imagines that street corner shouting will win something other than contempt. German newspapers refer to the spirit which marks captured American soldiers and the activity of those in the trenches who show an eagerness to get in the fight. It is the American spirit which pervades our boys, but are they being backed by the folks at home, for whose safety from the Hun they are anxious to fight? Dollar-chasing even at the expense of the lives of American soldiers marks the attitude of more than one American. It marks the ship carpenter who strikes because an attempt is made to increase and hasten ship-building by giving employment to men who are not members of the Union; it marks voters who threaten to strike unless their wages are increased to twenty-four dollars a day; it marks the farmer who threatens not to raise needed foodstuffs unless he can make an increased net profit out of his crops; it marks every man and woman who is unwilling to make a sacrifice in personal affairs and personal ambitions which at the utmost has been asked does not correspond to the sacrifice made by the private soldier who risks his life for a cash return of about one dollar a day.

The American policy in many lines of civil and political life has been to overlook or tolerate exorbitant demands based on the plea that someone else was profiting by extortion. When one group of workers, manufacturers or politicians has grown rich by robbery, we have complacently admitted that the demands of other groups were entitled to respectful consideration as long as they based their demand on the allegation that they had not been given "their chance." A chance to loot the public treasury, a chance to jack up prices to the consumer, to substitute an inferior quality, to compel higher prices practically at the point of a gun—all these practices have been allowed in America for many years. They are still being attempted. Their effect has been to retard war preparedness in America rather than to speed it up. If they had been abolished, the German drive would not have been prevented, but we would have been much further advanced in the work of preparation to take our active part in a war whose end will not be in sight until America has performed more work than she has performed up to this time.

The English still hold their line. If the line breaks, it means the war will be prolonged. If it holds, it means that Germany in spite of terrific losses will have gained ground from which eventually she must be beaten back by America and her Allies—a task which will fall on America alone if the Allies should be beaten. Are we doing our part at home?

Edward DuBois of Highland and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or spend ten days in jail. McCarthy and Reynolds said that their parents were dead. CHURCH SERVICES
AN HOUR EARLY

Next Sunday will be Easter Sunday, and all of the city churches will observe the day with special services. It is also the day when the hands of the clocks will be shoved ahead one hour. At a recent meeting of the ministers of the Protestant churches in the city the question of whether the church services should be held at the usual hour in the morning was discussed. The decision was reached that the churches should lead in any movement sanctioned by the government and it was decided to hold the services an hour earlier than usual. That is it will be 10:30 o'clock by the clocks but by actual time it will be 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Under the daylight saving law all clocks are to be set ahead one hour Sunday morning at 2 o'clock.

BAR WAY TO EVIL SPIRITS

Malayans Believe Mountains Were Placed to Shut Out Strange Races of Yajuj.

In the dark bungalow at Kuala Kubu (in Malaysia) the Chinatoy chawki-dar, queue in pocket, shod in shoes of silent felt, served my breakfast. I was at last on the threshold of a strange expedition in a land to which no letter ever came correctly addressed, so unknown was it to the outside world. At this moment the strangest thing in sight was my breakfast. It consisted chiefly of tiny Mongolian fowls—bumbling birds in size, squabs in taste—canned a dozen in a tin.

As I devoured the pitiful little birds, bones and all, I looked up at the great Malay mountain range, the backbone of the finger peninsula which stretches southward from Siam to within sight of the bund of Singapore itself. Mountains, so the Malays say, are the wall of the world, shutting out great winds and hosts of prey. And they believe that a strange race—the Yajuj—are forever striving to bore through, and when they succeed, then will come the end of all things.

The great limestone caves scattered throughout the mountains are places where the Yajuj have attempted and failed. There is nothing impossible or unbelievable in all this, when one comes to know Malay mountains in all their weirdness.—William Beebe, in the Atlantic Monthly.

RUDE AWAKENING FOR GUEST

Visiting Parson Got the "Dusting" That Irate Father Intended to Bestow on Offspring.

A story of how a parson got the dusting instead of a youth is related by a newspaper man of Wenatchee, Wash.

"The boy in the plot was Oscar Woods," he says. "It happened in Nebraska. In our home it was the custom for one of the boys to take his turn at starting the fire on cold mornings. It was 15 degrees below zero, and it was Oscar's turn. He lit the fire and then proceeded to the barn to feed the stock. But the fire went out.

"An hour later, perceiving that there was no fire, father sent another call, louder. Then several more. But no sound came. The 'governor' started upstairs.

"Without informing the head of the house, my brother had brought home a preacher the night before and put him in the same bed with Oscar.

"The parson had a thrilling awakening. He was yanked out of bed. He roared. This was too much for indignant dad.

"The conflict was exciting. The preacher fought like a wildcat.

"In the cold gray dawn dad found that he had made a mistake. It was tough, but the preacher survived."

Earthquake Statistics.

It has been calculated that there occur about 30,000 earthquakes within a year, or 8,760 hours, hence, that there are on the average three and one-half earthquakes in an hour. Fortunately, not all earthquakes are of a violent nature, like that of A. D. 526, that killed from 120,000 to 200,000 persons in the region of the Mediterranean, or that of 1938, to which 60,000 persons fell victims in Sicily, or of Lisbon in 1755, and those that devastated Chile, Peru and Japan. Of great frequency are the minor earthquakes. In fact, our so-called firm earth can be said to be in a state of perpetual agitation. Our senses do not perceive the slight disturbances, but the seismograph, a very delicate and ingenious apparatus devised to keep track of them, furnishes all the information desired to us by our natural insensibility. They often furnish us too much of it in the excess of their real, recording sometimes a seismic phenomena vibrations that later proved to have been due to the ringing of church bells.

Privileges of the Poor.

Will you show me any other people outside of the fairy books who can put the most fearful calamity on like a cloak and do it at will, who can arrange their families to seven or eight children overnight, and reduce them as readily to five or six on the following day if it be seem to them advisable? Where outside their ranks is there anyone capable of persuading you that it is a privilege to sleep cold so that more Durian can never saw or care to see shall, he had his alleged mulg, go better warmed? Who else, being neither of your kind nor kin, has such power over you that, with a mere bloodshot eye and shiver of the shoulders, they can turn your automobile, your fur, your warmth and all your pleasant pleasures into dead sea apples of discomfort?—Laura Spencer Porter, in the Atlantic Magazine.

Returns received up to noon today from ten towns in Ulster county, in the Knights of Columbus drive, showed a total new subscriptions toward the Ulster county fund since noon Saturday of approximately $5,900. The total of the city and county fund today is nearly $12,500 over the county's quota of $40,500. With the final night's returns tonight, from the city and county districts it is expected the grand total will approach close to $60,000. The total raised for the Red Cross drive in Ulster county last June—the greatest financial campaign of the war—was about $62,000.

Among the eleventh-hour surprises in the county reports received this morning by District Campaign Director W. R. McCord, at district headquarters in the Knights of Columbus club house was an additional $1,000 from Saugerties, bringing the total of the Saugerties campaigners to $7,512, or $2,500 over their quota. Of the total, $1,120 was contributed in the Italian settlement at Glasco, and $51 in the little hamlet of Mr. Marion, which has but six houses. The Saugerties committee held its final meeting last night, having completed the canvass of its entire district.

Port Ewen and Kingston turned in additional reports last night, and promised closing reports this evening, since their teams are not done working. From Sawkill, the Rev. George J. Vaeth sent in $210.25—all of it from very poor families. West Hurley, which was not expected to raise its full quota the first of the week, nearly doubled the $300 mark set for it, the committees rendering a final report last night of $500. The totals turned in yesterday afternoon by the workers came within a few dollars of the $500 mark, and the Rev. Father Peter W. Spellman and Team Chairman James Kerr made up the balance out of their private purses to make the total "even money."

Today the little settlement at Clove, which was not allotted any quota for the present campaign, reported $125 subscribed voluntarily to the fund, and the Rev. Father W. G. Henry promised an additional report tonight or tomorrow.

KINGSTON POINT CASE ADJOURNED

This morning in police court the trial of William Bradley and Willis Emmick, the two young boys of Ponckowick accused of breaking into the Penny Arcade at Kingston Point Park, had their hearing adjourned until a week from Friday at the request of A. J. Cook, who represented the Emmick boy. Mr. Cook informed the court that Judge O'Reilly, who represented the Bradley boy, was ill, and on that ground he asked for the adjournment.

Louis Kampf, the owner of the machines that were wrecked, was present in court and was represented by W. H. Grogan. Mr. Kampf estimated the damage to amount to about $1,500.

As Mr. Kampf resides in Beacon making it difficult to get to court in the morning the case was sent down for the afternoon on the adjourned day at 4 o'clock. The boys are both under bail and bail was continued.

TUG MEAD CAME UP WITH A TOW

The Tug Had No Trouble and Met But Little Floating Ice Between This Port and New York—Other River Notes.

The tug Mead of the Cornell Line reached Rondout early this morning with a small special tow of three barges which she had brought up from New York. She left for New York again with a small special tow of six barges. The Mead had absolutely no trouble in getting through and encountered but little floating ice, and that did not give her any difficulty at all.

The regular towing season will shortly open but just when is not known.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the Poughkeepsie of the Central Hudson Line left New York for Rondout as there is open water the entire distance she will have no trouble.

There is little, if any, floating ice off Kingston Point.

At Athens a gang of men were busy Saturday getting the steamer Berkshire ready for navigation. Steam was already up in the vessel's boilers.

The board of public works has decided to hold a public hearing at the city hall the afternoon of April 5, at 3 o'clock before adopting a proposed ordinance relating to the parking of automobiles on certain of the city streets. The Automobile Club of Ulster County, the police department, the fire department and other organizations have been notified and undoubtedly will be represented at the hearing. This is a matter of importance to all auto owners and they should make it a point to attend.

CLEAN-UP DAYS NOW ARE HERE

The work of cleaning the macadam streets of the city was started today by the board of public works. The White Wings have also resumed regular hours on the brick pavement. While the street force is busy cleaning up the winter's accumulation of dirt and refuse it would not be a bad idea for householders to get together and have a clean-up week in cleaning up their yards and porches.

The New York Federal Food Board has ruled under date of March 21: "Hereafter Tuesday will be a beefless and porkless day." The public is asked to use neither fresh, salt nor cured beef, veal or pork, in any form. All restaurants and hotels are forbidden to serve these meats on Tuesday, and all retail stores, including delicatessens, grocery and butcher stores are forbidden to sell these meats in cooked form on these days. The use of mutton, lamb and poultry (except hens and pullets) is permitted.

POOR DWELLING PLACE, THIS

British Naval Base of Wei-Hel-Wei Has Decidedly Few Attractions for European Residents.

Wei-hel-wei is the bit of Chinese territory that the British hold under lease as a naval and commercial base. It is just across the breadth of the Shanghai peninsula from Klawow, Wei-hel-wei lies partly on the mainland, partly on an island, where the dockyard, the coaling station and the rest of the machinery for a naval base are located. Most of the civilian population live on the mainland, and patronize a little steam launch that plies across the intervening sea when they want to go shopping; for with an eye to getting the British jackies' trade when warships put in to coal, the shops of Wei-hel-wei are out with the docks and the coal yards.

The island seen from the steam launch is a barren, sandy hill, ridged with gullies that the hurrying rain water has cut in its course to the sea. The sand of these hills is one of the omnipresent features of the colony; every wind that blows carries it about by pounds, and only the cheapness of Chinese servants makes it possible to keep a European household dusted.

BITTER FIGHTS OVER BEARDS

Tartars and Persians Long in Conflict Because They Held Varying Opinions on the Matter.

Before now the wearing of beards has caused a bitter war and made the executioner's ax cut through many a neck. The Tartars waged a long war with the Persians, declaring them infidels because they would not shave their beards after the fashion of Tartary.

The Greeks wore beards until the time of Alexander, who ordered the Macedonians to be shaved lest their beards should give handles to their enemies. The ancient Romans wore beards, but in England they were not fashionable after the conquest until the thirteenth century and were discontinued at the Restoration.

Peter the Great kept a squad of officers whose duty it was to cut the beards of unwilling citizens by force. Before 1840 shaving was almost universal in the United States.

There have been numerous instances of women with long masculine beards. Margaret of Savoy, daughter of Maximilian I, had a long stiff beard, and a woman was seen in Paris with a black bushy beard that reached to her waist. At the battle of Pultowa the Russians captured a bearded woman, whom they presented to the czar. She had a beard five and one-half feet long.

Gifted Writers Indolent.

De Quincey has called Coleridge "a man of infinite title pages," and he says he heard Coleridge admit that a list of the books he meditated but never executed would fill a large volume. In this respect the two opium eaters were rivals. Perhaps their fertility in projects was due, as Coleridge fancied, to an overactivity of thought, "modified by a constitutional indolence."

HOLDING THE LINE

It is impossible to predict the duration of the present drive which Germany is making on the European battle front, but while it is taking place she is not neglecting the opportunities in other parts of the world to seize on whatever lands, wealth, governments or individuals will aid in her ambition to bring the rest of the world groveling at the feet of the Kaiser.

Evidently it is the German plan to repeat in a general way the campaign she had planned at the beginning of the war when Belgium and France were invaded. Germany then had planned to strike quickly and capture Paris, then stalk through France to the sea coast, resisting any English army which might attempt to land and also preparing to make an invasion of England, relying on German-made plots of revolution in Ireland to prevent united resistance; then at her leisure overrun the remainder of France, after which she would be ready to dictate to Russia, and by the aid of the subjugated armies and navies of the conquered countries dictate to unprepared America her terms for the Western hemisphere.

Again she is striking at Paris, but the object in view is necessarily different now because three and a half years have given the Allies opportunity to trench themselves from the Swiss Alps to the North Sea, a distance of over four hundred miles. To be able to obliterate the British defenses along the front where the drive is now being made would enable Germany to attack both the French and English forces on their flank, and this plan if successful would enable the Kaiser to hang Paris at his scalp-belt along with Petrograd, and open the way for German hordes to hack a pathway toward the French coast ports which, once captured, would prevent further landing on French soil either by the British or the Americans.

Somewhere in France there must be a reserve army of at least several hundred thousand American soldiers who have been undergoing intensive training. Only a small sector of the battlefield is being occupied by the soldiers of the United States. Sometimes there has been wonderment expressed by civilians on this side of the Atlantic that American troops were not being brought to more active service against the Hun. Is it not possible that they have been held meanwhile being trained intensively, as the reserve army which would be used in an emergency such as the present situation seems, and which must have been foreseen? But if the American army does form the reserve, how inadequate it is if the British are unable to hold their line for a day or two, must have a reserve army somewhere behind her lines at least equal to the reserve which she has been enabled to withdraw from the battle front.

The indomitable American spirit which is responsible for our progress has accomplished wonderful results since we entered the war in spite of official incompetence, red tape methods, German propaganda and their unsuspecting tool in all branches of American life, traitorous dollar-chasing at a time of national emergency and the flamboyant posturing before remarked which would imagine that street corner shouting will win something other than contempt from German newspapers prior to the start which marks captured American soldiers and the activity of those in the trenches who show an eagerness to get in the fight. It is the American spirit which permeates our boys, but are they being backed by the tanks at home, for whose safety from the Hun they are anxious to fight? Dollar-chasing even at the expense of the lives of American soldiers marks the attitude of more than one American. It marks the ship carpenter who strikes because an attempt is made to increase and hasten ship-building by giving employment to men who are not members of the Union; it marks the farmer who threatens not to raise potatoes of a certain variety unless he can make an increased net profit out of it. It is a mark every man and woman who is unwilling to make a sacrifice in personal affairs and personal ambitions which at the utmost amount to a cash return of about one dollar a day.

The American policy in many lines of civil and political life has been to overlook or tolerate exorbitant demands based on the plea that someone else was protesting by extortion. When one group of workers, manufacturers or politicians has grown rich by robbery, we have complacently admitted that the demands of other groups were entitled to respectful consideration as long as they based their demand on the allegation that they had not been given "their chance." A chance to loot the public treasury, a chance to jack up prices to the consumer, to substitute an inferior quality, to compel higher prices practically at the point of a gun—all these practices have been allowed in America for many years. They are still being attempted. Their effect has been to retard war preparedness in America rather than to speed it up. If they had been abolished, the German drive would not have been prevented, but we would have been much further advanced in the work of preparation to take our active part in a war whose end will not be in sight until America has performed more work than she has performed up to this time.

The English still hold their line. It is the line breaks, it means the war will be prolonged. If it holds, it means that Germany in spite of terrible losses will have gained ground from which eventually she must be beaten back by America and her Allies—a task which will fall on America alone if the Allies should be beaten. Are we doing our part at home?

In Jail for Car Riding.

Frank McCarthy, 15 years old, Michael Pletto, 15, Joseph Reynolds, 17, all of Waterbury, Conn., are serving a ten day sentence in the county jail here for train riding. They were arrested at the Highland end of the bridge by guardsmen, turned over to Deputy Sheriff Smith, arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. Edward DuBois of Highland and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or spend ten days in jail. McCarthy and Reynolds said that their parents were dead. Pletto's parents are living and officials from the sheriff's office got in communication with them, thinking they would pay Pletto's fine, but this they refused to do.

CHURCH SERVICES AN HOUR EARLY

Next Sunday will be Easter Sunday, and all of the city churches will observe the day with special services. It is also the day when the hands of the clocks will be moved ahead one hour. At a recent meeting of the ministers of the Protestant churches in the city the question of whether the church services should be held at the usual hour in the morning was discussed. The decision was reached that the churches should lead in any movement sanctioned by the government and it was decided to hold the services an hour earlier than usual. That is it will be 10 o'clock by the clocks but by actual time it will be 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Under the daylight saving law all clocks are to be set ahead one hour Sunday morning at 2 o'clock.

BAR WAY TO EVIL SPIRITS

Malaysians Believe Mountains Were Placed to Shut Out Strange Races of Yajul.

In the dark bungalow at Kuala Kubu (in Malaysia) the Chinoy chowki-dar, queue in pocket, shod in shoes of silent felt, served my breakfast. I was at last on the threshold of a strange expedition in a land to which no letter ever came correctly addressed, so unknown was it to the outside world. At this moment the strangest thing in sight was my breakfast. It consisted chiefly of bits of tiny Mongolian fishes—bumbling birds in size, squabs in taste—canned a dozen in a tin.

As I devoured the pitiful little birds, bones and all, I looked up at the great Malay mountain range, the backbone of the finger peninsula which stretches southward from Siam to within sight of the band of Singapore itself. Mountains, so the Malays say, are the wall of the world, shutting out great winds and beasts of prey. And they believe that a strange race—the Yajul—are forever striving to bore through, and when they succeed, then will come the end of all things.

The great limestone caves scattered throughout the mountains are places where the Yajul have attempted and failed. There is nothing impossible or unbelievable in all this, when one comes to know Malay mountains in all their weirdness. —William Beebe, in the Atlantic Monthly.

RUDE AWAKENING FOR GUEST

Visiting Parson Got the "Dusting" Thatirate Father Intended to Bestow on Offspring.

A story of how a parson got the dusting instead of a youth is related by a newspaper man of Wenatchee, Wash.

"The boy in the plot was Oscar Woods," he says. "It happened in Nebraska. In our home it was the custom for one of the boys to take his turn at starting the fire on cold mornings. It was 15 degrees below zero, and it was Oscar's turn. He lit the fire and then proceeded to the barn to feed the stock. But the fire went out."

"An hour later, perceiving that there was no fire, father sent another call. Louder. Then several more. But no sound came. The 'governor' started upstairs."

"Without informing the head of the house, my brother had brought home a preacher the night before and put him in the same bed with Oscar."

"The parson had a thrilling awakening. He was yanked out of bed. He resisted. This was too much for indignant dad."

"The conflict was exciting. The preacher fought like a wildcat."

"In the cold gray dawn dad found that he had made a mistake. It was tough, but the preacher survived."

Earthquake Statistics.

It has been calculated that there occur about 30,000 earthquakes within a year, or 8,660 hours, hence, that there are on the average three and one-half earthquakes in an hour. Fortunately, not all earthquakes are of a violent nature, like that of A. D. 526, that killed from 120,000 to 200,000 persons in the region of the Mediterranean, or that of 1693, to which 60,000 persons fell victims in Sicily, or of Lisbon in 1755, and those that devastated Chile, Peru and Japan. Of great frequency are the minor earthquakes. In fact, our so-called firm earth can be said to be in a state of perpetual agitation. Our senses do not perceive the slight disturbances, but the seismograph, a very delicate and ingenious apparatus devised to keep track of them, furnishes all the information denied to us by our natural insensibility. They often furnish us too much of it in the excess of their zeal, recording sometimes as seismic phenomena vibrations that later proved to have been due to the ringing of church bells.

Privileges of the Poor.

Will you show me any other people outside of the fairy books who can put the most fearful calamity on like a cloak and do it at will, who can augment their families to seven or eight children overnight, and reduce them as readily to five or six on the following day if it seem to them advisable? Where outside their ranks is there anyone capable of persuading you that it is a privilege to sleep cold so that some darius you never saw or care to see shall, he had his allegorical mule, go better warmed? Who else, being neither of your kind nor kin, has such power over you that, with a mere bloodshot eye and shiver of the shoulders, they can turn your automobile, your furs, your warmth and all your pleasant pleasures into dead sea apples of discomfort?—Laura Spencer Porter, in the Atlantic Magazine.

Imagine possessing the power to step on a simple platform and almost at the expression of a wish to be able to GO—anywhere, everywhere, quickly, comfortably and at the least expense.

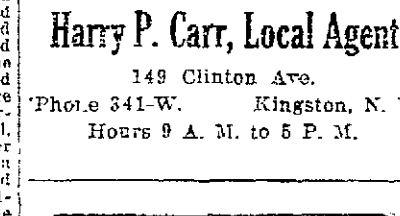

Imagine owning a means of transportation so light in weight that you can lift it with practically no effort—so simple that you can master it in a few short hours—so ingeniously constructed that it will travel at five to twenty-five miles an hour and keep going for nearly a hundred miles on a gallon of gasoline—and so well built that it will give you lasting service with a minimum upkeep cost.

Imagine all these things and then couple to them the greatest ratio of personal safety found in any mechanically operated vehicle and you will have a good mental picture of the latest thing in transportation—THE AUTOPED.

Prices, with lights, horn and tool equipment, $128.75; without $118.30.

SEEKING AID FOR NEGLECTED CHILDREN

A. W. Peckham of Hamilton, N. Y., is making his annual spring visit to our city seeking aid for the neglected children of rural America. He spoke at several of our Sunday schools Sunday relative to the great need among the destitute families for intellectual, social, moral and religious development. To meet these conditions there is need of a society which is union, evangelical and distinctly missionary.

Mr. Peckham represents the society that is proving to be qualified to meet these needs. "The American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia, Pa.," a national union organized upon a basis that cares for the growing and peculiar conditions of the whole country. Its chief purpose is "to cultivate unity among the denominations and permit the establishment of Sunday schools in the waste places of our country."

The American Sunday School Union as recently completed its 101 years' work. 131,814 Sunday schools have been organized with an enrollment when they started of 699,034 teachers and 5,179,570 scholars.

In the progress of its work it has administered to thousands of neglected families in their homes as well as in the school. Over 200 missionaries are now engaged and as there are not less than 16,000,000 youth and children living in our country without the Sunday school privilege, this society could use three times this number of workers.

The distinctive principles of the American Sunday School Union are:

1. To do the pioneer work in evangelizing remote districts.
2. To unite people of divergent religious faith, together with those of no faith, in a Bible school.
3. To seek to enlarge the kingdom of God through inter-denominational home missionary work.
4. To give the world an object lesson concerning the effectiveness of united Christian effort.
5. To demonstrate how easily divergent religious views will harmonize in Christian work.
6. To establish a Christian Bible study center in sparsely settled places.
7. To publish and circulate approved religious literature which shall set forth the essential Evangelical basis, and yet on such a basis as shall most surely win souls to Jesus Christ.
8. To provide Bibles for Bible study in homes otherwise untouched.
9. To enrich the influence of the Bible school with the influence of the Bible school.
10. To do Sunday school home missionary work on the broadest Evangelical basis, and yet on such a basis as shall most surely win souls to Jesus Christ.

Many Kingston people will remember Mr. DeGroff and Mr. Davies who came here for many years. These men are Mr. Peckham's predecessors. Should Mr. Peckham miss seeing any that would like to become acquainted more fully with this grand work, a message sent him to the Kingston Y. M. C. A. or at his address, Hamilton, N. Y., would receive his attention.

Many Out Sunday.

The ideal weather of Sunday brought out many pedestrians and motorists. It was cool, but the air was clear and invigorating. Many Kingstonians took a long hike in the country.

FIRE HYDRANTS IN GOOD SHAPE

With water pressure gradually becoming normal and with all of the city fire hydrants thawed out and in working order there is no danger from a big fire getting beyond control owing to lack of either pressure or water. The water department is kept busy locating numberless small leaks. These leaks are found mainly in the service pipes. Superintendent Harrison stated today that he had expected more trouble when the frost began to leave the ground than has really been encountered so far. There is considerable frost in the ground and it will take a number of fine days before it is out of the ground.

City Assessor Block Moves.

City Assessor Morris Block has moved from his home on Wurts street, formerly occupied by Henry C. Connelly, and is removing today from his former home at No. 2 Ponck-hockie to Wurts street. Mr. Connelly recently purchased the Pardee residence on President's Place which he is now occupying.

To Organize a Guild

There will be a meeting of all the young women of the Fair Street Reformed Church in the Sunday school room Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Frances Davis, field secretary in foreign and domestic missions, will speak, and a Young Women's Mission Guild will be organized.

ANNA HELD'S DAUGHTER.

To Star in Musical Comedy Having Many Interesting Features.

Anna Held's gorgeous musical comedy, "Follow Me," will be given at the Kingston opera house Friday afternoon and night with Anna Held's daughter, Liane Held, playing principal role. She is playing the star part because of her mother's illness and in all her appearances has shown herself a young woman of remarkable vivacity. The entertainment is a procession of lavish wardrobes, a feast of the bizarre in overdressed show girls and a startling exhibition of the same young women in scanty attire. "Follow Me" has many novel features, catchy songs and much to laugh at.

Winchell, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Bishop, Mrs. Minnie Smith and the Misses Nettie and Florence Kelder.

A. B. C. D.-E. Final Arrangements Completed.

Arrangements for the annual Benedictine Charity Dance, Easter Monday evening at the armory, are practically completed and all attending are assured a most delightful evening. Every member of the ticket committee is loud in praise of the kindly and generous response made by the public at this time, in spite of the numerous demands upon the pocket books just now. The large number of tickets already sold has greatly encouraged the committee.

As has been previously stated, the Charity Ward of the Benedictine Sanitarium is without funds and this annual dance is the only support of this ward, which does so much for those in need of medical and surgical aid, yet who are unable to pay for the same.

Since "Over the top" is now Kingston's slogan in all worthy causes, a earnest appeal is made to have this home charity supported as it deserves, and to this end every one

ST. REMY.
St. Remy, March 25.—The topic of the C. E. next Sunday night will be, "Lessons From the Risen Christ—Forty Days." John 21, 10-17. Easter meeting. Leader, David Ackerman.

There was a surprise party at Mr. Engle's last Thursday night. About thirty were present.

Elvin Shultis is ill with grip. Some of our farmers are in the maple sugar business.

Mrs. William Freer is visiting with friends in New York city.

Mrs. D. Carney, who has been quite ill, is improving, under the care of Dr. Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzsimmons of Bridgeport are guests of Mrs. Daniel Carney. Her sister, Mrs. Laura Ford, of Newburgh has been staying with her since her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Von Beck spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Freer.

Small House.

"The Doll's House," South Audley street, London, England, which has been acquired by a member of a well-known New York family, is the smallest house in Mayfair, but not the smallest in London. This distinction belongs to No. 10 Hyde Park place, one of a row of houses on the Bayswater side overlooking the park, built over a passage six feet wide, between Nos. 9 and 11. Although it has a street door guarded by an iron gate, there is only one room in the house. This architectural oddity was built about fifty years ago by an old lady named Jupp, who lived at No. 9, for occupation by one of her servants. She had a number placed on the street door, and so endowed it with a separate existence as a house.

Magnets.

Although there is such a thing as a natural magnet most of those in use are artificial. There are two general methods for making artificial magnets. The first is to take a bar or needle of magnetic substance, iron or steel, wrap an insulated wire around it like a thread on a spool, and pass a strong electric current through the wire. The other method is to take as before a bar or needle of a magnetic substance and place it near a magnet. The intensity of the magnetization in both cases is increased by hammering the bar while the process of magnetizing is going on. A piece of steel magnetized in this way remains so for a long time, while a piece of iron soon loses its magnetization.

Now They're Mollycoddles.

Dandies who are making their reappearance at the Royalty theater, were fast disappearing when Queen Victoria began her reign, says the London Times.

Extravagance in dress and manners did not of course originate with them, but in earlier times there were other names for those who were noted for similar eccentricities. They were called beaux in the days of Queen Anne and the earlier Georges, "fops" and "sparks" being scornful synonyms.

In the latter half of the eighteenth century these fashionable fops were known as macaronis, and the dandies may be said to have come in during the regency.

Bit Too Clever.

A pretty good illustration of the way in which cleverness often overreaches itself is provided by the English sparrows, who conclude in their smart and superior way that the piece of nice, nourishing suit swung to a branch of our cherry tree by a prominent member of the Audubon society is some new kind of trap and won't go within smell of it, with the highly satisfactory result that the less self-sufficient and more trusting cardinals and downy woodpeckers get all the good of it.—Ohio State Journal.

GERMANS CLAIM
CAPTURE OF BAPAUME

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 25.—Bapaume, which has been the storm center of fighting on the western front during the past twenty-four hours, has been captured by the Germans. It was claimed by the war office today.

The official statement claims further that the number of Allied prisoners has been increased to 45,000 in the first five days of the German offensive.

The war office again made mention of American troops, saying that British, French and American forces were "thrown back through a pathless wooded country by way of Neville and Cefmont."

Desperate fighting for possession of Comble developed.

The German crown prince's army forced a passage of the Somme river below Ham and scaled height position to the west of the Somme, the official report added.

"We again bombarded Paris with long range guns."

Returns received up to noon today from ten towns in Ulster county, in the Knights of Columbus drive, showed a total new subscriptions toward the Ulster county fund since noon Saturday of approximately $5,900. The total of the city and county fund today is nearly $12,500 over the county's quota of $40,500. With the final night's returns tonight, from the city and county districts it is expected the grand total will approach close to $60,000. The total raised for the Red Cross drive in Ulster county last June—the greatest financial campaign of the war—was about $62,000.

Among the eleventh-hour surprises in the county reports received this morning by District Campaign Director W. R. McCord, at district headquarters in the Knights of Columbus club house was an additional $1,000 from Saugerties, bringing the total of the Saugerties campaigners to $7,512, or $2,500 over their quota. Of the total, $1,120 was contributed in the Italian settlement at Glasco, and $51 in the little hamlet of Mr. Marion, which has but six houses. The Saugerties committee held its final meeting last night, having completed the canvass of its entire district.

Port Ewen and Kingston turned in additional reports last night, and promised closing reports this evening, since their towns are not done working. From Sawkill, the Rev. George J. Vaeth sent in $210.25—all of it from very poor families. West Hurley, which was not expected to raise its full quota the first of the week, nearly doubled the $300 mark set for it, the committees rendering a final report last night of $500. The totals turned in yesterday afternoon by the workers came within a few dollars of the $500 mark, and the Rev. Father Peter W. Spellman and Team Chairman James Kerr made up the balance out of their private purses to make the total "even money."

Today the little settlement at Clove, which was not allotted any quota for the present campaign, reported $125 subscribed voluntarily to the fund, and the Rev. Father W. G. Henry promised an additional report tonight or tomorrow.

KINGSTON POINT CASE ADJOURNED

This morning in police court the trial of William Bradley and Willis Emmick, the two young boys of Ponckowick accused of breaking into the Penny Arcade at Kingston Point Park, had their hearing adjourned until a week from Friday at the request of A. J. Cook, who represented the Emmick boy. Mr. Cook informed the court that Judge O'Reilly, who represented the Bradley boy, was ill, and on that ground he asked for the adjournment.

Louis Kampf, the owner of the machines that were wrecked, was present in court and was represented by W. H. Grogan. Mr. Kampf estimated the damage to amount to about $1,500.

As Mr. Kampf resides in Beacon making it difficult to get to court in the morning the case was sent down for the afternoon on the adjourned day at 4 o'clock. The boys are both under bail and bail was continued.

CROSSING CASE TO GRAND JURY

Joseph T. Moore, Gate Tender at

West Shore Crossing When Train

Hit Trolley Car, Waives Examination—Placed Under $2,500 Bond.

An echo of the Broadway crossing tragedy when the New York newspaper train crashed into a Kingston City trolley car killing three men and injuring a number of others, was heard in police court this morning when Joseph T. Moore, 49 years old, the gate tender on the fatal day, was arraigned before Judge Schirick. Moore is charged with manslaughter in the second degree.

Through his attorney, Amos Van Eiten, he waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury. Bail bond was fixed at $2,500 which was furnished by James A. Phelan and N. D. J. Murphy.

County Judge Jenkins was present in police court and approved the bond.

Assistant District Attorney J. DePuy Hasbrouck was also present in the court room.

W. D. Brinnier, Sr., was also present in the interests of the trolley road.

A very large number of friends were present to pay their last respects to the departed one, and the floral offerings were numerous and handsome. The bearers were A. H. Cook, Hugo Schwabach, D. Kruscher, Charles Tonsky, Lewis Bruder and Andrew Kohl. The remains which reposed in a quartered oak casket were placed in a bluestone vault and laid to rest in St. Peter's cemetery. The Rev. Father Neumann and the Rev. Father Vaeth accompanied the funeral to the cemetery.

Peter B. Warner, considered one of the best harness makers along the Hudson river valley, died today at his room in the United States Hotel after an illness of two months. Heart trouble was the principal cause of his death. Mr. Warner for many years was in business downtown and of late years has had his harness shop located at No. 628 Broadway. He was an active member of the Wurts Street Baptist Church and a member of the Prudential committee of the church. He was also greatly interested in Sunday school work and at one time taught a class in the Baptist Sunday school. He was widely known as an expert harness maker, and his work could always be depended upon. He was a man whose upright Christian character endeared him to all who came in contact with him both in a business and social way. About a year ago while visiting in Brooklyn he caught a heavy cold and since then his health had never been of the best. For many years he resided at No. 14 Abiel street, but shortly after the death of his wife he sold the property to Samuel Present, who now resides there. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. George Decker, who resides in Brooklyn. She has been notified of her father's death and the funeral arrangements will not be made until she arrives in the city. In the death of Mr. Warner the city has lost one of its representative citizens.

How Sugar Became a Necessity.

Man's enormous need for sugar is the result of the evolution of his digestive system. Our remote ancestors in the European forests of the ice age were able to digest cellulose and get the sugar out of it, as a goat or a camel does now. The organ which did this work was the vermiform appendix. Later, man began to get enough sugar by converting the starch in grains and fruits. Then he discovered the process of cooking, which makes this conversion of starches into sugar much easier, and even in some cases performs the conversion. When sugar was discovered, it was at first regarded as a curiosity, then served as a luxury, and finally became the necessity which it now is, as men's stomachs became accustomed to its use. It is, then, a partially digested food, and a highly concentrated form of energy. The sugar-eating man has survived because he took a great burden off his digestive tract and thereby had more energy for other work. Hence man has become a confirmed sugar eater.

General Custer's War Horses.

Frog Town was one of General Custer's war horses. He was the finest specimen of the thoroughbred I ever saw, standing 16 hands, well balanced and of excellent proportions, writes a correspondent of the Washington Post.

In motion he was superb, a perfect model for the sculptor's art. The favorite war horse of General Custer on the plains was a brown horse called Dandy. He was 15 1/2 hands, compact, muscular horse, fine head and neck. He marched in the ranks of Custer's little army of daring troopers on June 25, 1876, against the confederated Sioux tribes, that terrible day of the massacre of Custer and his men, in the Valley of Little Big Horn, and was shot through the shoulder. He lived, however, to return to Fort Lincoln, whence, after a partial recovery, he was sent to General Custer's father at Monroe, Mich.

Evergreen Dress for Statuettes.

Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men, their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.

FARMERS PLAN TO DO THEIR DUTY

At Meeting of Ulster County Farm Bureau Held Saturday at the Court House—Girls and Boys Will Do Their Bit on the Farm—More Milk Should be Used.

An informal discussion of ways and means in which Ulster county farmers can help the government in the war crisis, and the passing of a number of resolutions along these lines, were the features of the afternoon session of the meeting held Saturday at the court house here under the direction of the Ulster County Farm Bureau.

An account of the morning session was published in The Freeman Saturday.

One of the principal topics discussed in detail in the afternoon was the outlook for farm labor this season. From present indications it seems that the plan of having young women and young men from various schools do their bit during the summer by working on the farms will be tried this year on a more extensive scale than last year.

Many pupils from Kingston's schools, especially the high school, will help, some on the farm of their parents, and other pupils working on various farms in the county.

Myron J. Michael, superintendent of schools, was called upon at the meeting to explain the state's system of giving credit to pupils having ratings in their studies of at least 75 per cent. These pupils will be given academic credits. Pupils having a per centage of sixty-five per cent in their studies may take an examination and if they pass this successfully they will be given credit.

Details of the Plan.

The employer and the pupils he may employ have to sign a definite contract for a certain period of time. Prof. Michael stated that he thought that the state department of education would be reasonable and fair in its attitude, and if after signing a contract the pupils proved to be incompetent for farm labor that the local school authorities had a right to cancel the academic credits of the pupil, thus taking away the incentive of the pupil to continue at the farm work.

One feature of the plan the state department has not made very clear, namely: the manner and method of supervision. The department requires supervision of those pupils going out for farm work, but has not given definite instructions as to just what supervision is necessary. It mentions a weekly report signed by the employer.

Professor Michael stated that if this supervision meant the hiring of some person to go around to the various farms and personally inspect the work that the pupils were doing, it would be an expensive proposition, and not practical.

He has written to the state department for more definite instructions pertaining to this matter.

Woman's Land Army of America.

Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, president of the Woman's Home Defense League of Ulster County, said that the Woman's Land Army of America was ready, as last year, to do its bit, and units of women, from four to seventy to a unit, were ready to work on the farms.

A Lively Discussion.

J. A. Hepworth, vice-president of the Farm Bureau, read a circular issued by the officials of the Woman's Land Army of America and said that many of the statements of the circular were very much exaggerated; especially the one about the untrained workers. This statement said, "You can learn them enough in twenty minutes to keep them busy a week."

There were other statements on the circular that Mr. Hepworth took exception to. He said that there is certain work that women can do on the farms, and that they do this work in an efficient manner; but that there is other work that women cannot do; and that the women ought to be told that some of the work is hard and requires not only training, but physical strength, and because of these things it is impossible for women to do it.

Mr. Hepworth had a quota of these women from the land army working for him last summer on his place, and he gave an interesting account of their activities. He paid some of the workers a high complement. Incidentally, he said that two of the women in the quota were invalids.

Mrs. Schoonmaker to the Rescue.

After Mr. Hepworth concluded his remarks about the women workers Mrs. Schoonmaker said that she supposed there was but little left to say about the women, but that she wished to have it understood that these women from the land army were willing and ready to do their bit for their country by working on the farms this season and doing the best that they could.

Pro and Con.

Other of the women present took exception to the attitude of some of the men, that the women could only do light work on the farms, and the discussion grew spirited and interesting.

The situation was relieved by a bit of humor. One of the men suggested that the women from the land army do the cooking and house-work while the farmers' wives and daughters worked in the fields.

"Sounds good," said one of the men, "but maybe there might be some jealousy in the farmers' households, for some of those women from the land army looked pretty good."

However, after the discussion, the general sentiment seemed to be that the services of the women could be used on the farms in certain lines of work that would release the men for the heavier work.

Mrs. Cole Speaks.

Mrs. Thomas Cole of Saugerties made a few remarks. Her talk was interesting and practical and was received with applause. She gave a description of a dehydrator, a machine used for drying fruits and vegetables. Mrs. Cole said that if one of these machines could be installed in Ulster county it would be a big asset in the conservation of fruit and vegetables. The machines are expensive but the saving they effect means much.

Mrs. Cole emphasized the food value of vegetables. She told of how the members of the first Polar expedition suffered a peculiar illness, which later was found to be caused by a lack of vegetables.

MacMillan in his Crocker land expedition took 10,000 pounds of dehydrated vegetables. Germany realizes the great value of conservation; even the cattle food is dried.

Mrs. Cole told of the work of dehydrators that have been financed by Mrs. Harriman.

Food Value of Butter.

Miss Lillian Stuart told of the food value of butter and urged a campaign to educate everyone to eat more butter and stop the use of oleomargarine. Miss Stuart also emphasized the value of milk as a food product.

An interesting discussion about butter and its making followed. Mr. Young said that butter making among the farmers was a lost art. A number of suggestions for the keeping of butter were made.

Miss Stuart suggested the idea of having some person in each community who understood how to make butter, serve as instructor and demonstrator in that community.

Those Hoover Regulations.

Mr. Young had a busy time on several occasions during the meeting trying to answer questions relative to the Hoover regulations. He answered them to the best of his ability, but there are so many of them and they are changed so often that it is very much of a job to keep thoroughly posted on the same.

A Profitable Meeting.

The meeting was well attended and was a profitable one. The farm help situation and many problems of vital interest to the farmers were taken up and many practical suggestions brought up.

A feature of the meeting was the interest taken by the women present, who proved that they are thoroughly conversant with the various problems. Nearly all of the women spoke informally and along practical lines.

Among the women present were the following: Mrs. James O. Winston, Saugerties; Mrs. John T. Washburn, Saugerties; Mrs. William Warren, Hurley; Miss Malcolm, Modena; Mrs. Seymour Perwillmer, Cornwall; Mrs. Thomas Cole, Saugerties; Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Lawton, Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, Mrs. Simmons and Miss Lillian Stuart, all of Kingston.

Worth While Quotation.

"Some people seem to tie up all the sorrows of the past; to them they add the burdens of the present; then they look ahead and anticipate a great many more trials than they will ever experience in the future."

SEEKING AID FOR NEGLECTED CHILDREN

A. W. Peckham, of Hamilton, N. Y., is making his appeal for aid to our city seeking aid for the neglected children of rural America. He spoke at several of our Sunday schools Sunday relative to the great need among the neglected families for intellectual, social, moral and religious development. To meet these conditions there is need of a society which is union, evangelical and distinctly missionary.

Mr. Peckham represents the society that is proving to be qualified to meet these needs. "The American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia, Pa." a national organization upon a basis that covers the growing and peopling conditions of the whole country. Its chief purpose is to cultivate and unify among the denominations and permit the establishment of Sunday schools in the worst places of our country.

The American Sunday School Union has recently completed its 100 years' work. 121,514 Sunday schools have been organized with an enrollment when they started of 519,031 teachers and 1,179,270 scholars.

In the progress of its work it has administered to thousands of neglected families in their homes as well as in the schools. Over 200 missionaries are now engaged and as there are not less than 15,000,000 youth and children living in our country without the Sunday school privilege, this society could use three times this number of workers.

The distinctive principles of the American Sunday School Union are:

1. To do the pioneer work in evangelizing remote districts.
2. To unite people of divergent religious faith, together with those of one faith, in a Bible school.
3. To seek to enlarge the kingdom of God through inter-denominational home missionary work.
4. To give the world an object lesson concerning the effectiveness of united Christian effort.
5. To demonstrate how easily divergent religious views will harmonize in Christian work.
6. To establish a Christian Bible study center in sparsely settled places.
7. To publish and circulate approved religious literature which shall set forth the essential Evangelical saving truths of Christianity.
8. To provide Bibles for Bible study in homes otherwise untouched.
9. To enrich the influence of the public school, with the influence of the Bible school.
10. To do Sunday school home missionary work on the broader Evangelical basis, and get on such a basis as shall most surely win souls to Jesus Christ.

Many Kingston people will remember Mr. DeGroot and Mr. Davies who came here for many years. These men are Mr. Peckham's predecessors. Should Mr. Peckham miss seeing any that would like to become acquainted more fully with this grand work, a messenger sent him to the Kingston Y. M. C. A. or at his address, Hamilton, N. Y., would receive his attention.

Many Out Sunday.
The ideal weather of Sunday brought out many pedestrians and motorists. It was cool, but the air was clear and invigorating. Many Kingstons took a long hike in the country.

FIRE HYDRANTS
IN GOOD SHAPE

With water pressure gradually becoming normal and with all of the city fire hydrants thawed out and in working order, there is no danger from a big fire getting beyond control owing to lack of either pressure or water. The water department is kept busy locating numerous small leaks. These leaks are found mainly in the service pipes. Superintendent Harrison stated today that he had expected more trouble when the frost began to leave the ground than has really been encountered so far. There is considerable frost in the ground and it will take a number of fine days before it is out of the ground.

City Assessor Block Moves.

City Assessor Morris Block has moved the house on Wurts street, formerly occupied by Henry C. Connolly, and is removing today from his former home at No. 2 Ponckhockie in Wurts street. Mr. Connolly recently purchased the Pardee residence on President's Place which he is now occupying.

To Organize a Guild

There will be a meeting of all the young women of the Fair Street Reformed Church in the Sunday school room Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Frances Davis, field secretary in foreign and domestic missions, will speak and a Young Women's Mission Guild will be organized.

ANNA HELD'S DAUGHTER.

To Star in Musical Comedy. Having many interesting features.

Anna Held, gorgeous musical comedy star, will be given at the Kingston opera house Friday afternoon and night with Anna Held's daughter, Irene Held, playing the principal role. She is playing the part because of her mother's illness and in all her appearances has shown herself a young woman of remarkable vitality. The entertainment is a procession of the bizarre in overdone show girls and a startling exhibition of the same young women in semi attire. "Follow Me" has many novel features, catchy songs and much to laugh at.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, March 25.—The weekly dinners given by the West Shokan Dinner Club will continue during the spring. The dinners have been held weekly at the homes of the various members and only the members of the club have attended. The club was organized informally at the beginning of the winter and the weekly dinners and socials at the homes of the various members have been greatly enjoyed. Those who are members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Chase Davis, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil H. Winchell, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Bishop, Mr. Minnie Smith and the Misses Nettie and Florence Kelder.

A. B. C. D.—Final Arrangements Completed.

Arrangements for the annual Beneficent Charity Dance, Easter Monday evening at the armory, are practically completed and all attending are assured a most delightful evening. Every member of the ticket committee is lead in the kind and generous response made by the public at this time in spite of the numerous demands upon the pocket books of late. The large number of tickets already sold has greatly encouraged the committee.

As has been previously stated, the Charity Ward of the Beneficent Sanatorium is without funds and this annual dance is the only support of the ward, which does so much for those in need of medical and surgical aid and yet who are unable to pay for the same.

Bit Too Clever.

A pretty good illustration of the way in which cleverness often overreaches itself is provided by the English sparrows, who conclude in their smart and superior way that the piece of nice, nourishing suet swung to a branch of our cherry tree by a prominent member of the Audubon society is some new kind of trap and won't go within smell of it, with the highly satisfactory result that the less self-sufficient and more trusting cardinals and downy woodpeckers get all the good of it.—Ohio State Journal.

Shady Camp Fire Girls

The last of October the girls of Shady met to organize a small Camp Fire Girls Branch to be called "Hone-Loy" from honesty and loyalty, signifying they would strive to have their work as a group known by these two qualities. Notwithstanding the weather and the small amount of time at their command, the group has regularly met at the studio of the guardian, Miss M. Rachel Lazarus. Young as it is, Camp Fire "Hone-Loy" has several accomplishments to its credit, among them knitted comforts for our "boys," and best of all the adoption of one of the desolate children of France, made so by the brutal invasion of her country. This little maiden of ten will be provided for by the efforts of these young girls who are now organizing a New England entertainment for mid-April with the hope of raising a small addition to their fund for her, and also to do their "bit" for the "boys" in the army and navy. With charming thought the girls have written a French letter to Marshal Joffre, telling him of this adoption being a valentine to him. The marshal has not had time to respond but with true French courtesy will no doubt do so. In that event a copy will be sent The Freeman by Camp Fire Hone-Loy should it be desired.

How Sugar Became a Necessity.

Man's enormous need for sugar is the result of the evolution of his digestive system. Our remote ancestors in the European forests of the ice age were able to digest cellulose and get the sugar out of it, as a goat or a camel does now. The organ which did this work was the vermiform appendix. Later, man began to get enough sugar by converting the starch in grains and fruits. Then he discovered the process of cooking, which makes this conversion of starches into sugar much easier, and even in some cases performs the conversion. When sugar was discovered, it was at first regarded as a curiosity, then served as a luxury, and finally became the necessity which it now is, as men's stomachs became accustomed to its use. It is, then, a partially digested food, and a highly concentrated form of energy. The sugar-eating man has survived because he took a great burden off his digestive tract and thereby had more energy for other work. Hence man has become a confirmed sugar eater.

General Custer's War Horses.

Frog Tuwa was one of General Custer's war horses. He was the finest specimen of the thoroughbred I ever saw, standing 16 hands, well balanced and of excellent proportions, writes a correspondent of the Washington Post. In motion he was superb, a perfect model for the sculptor's art. The favorite war horse of General Custer on the plains was a brown horse called Dandy. He was 15 1/2 hands, a compact, muscular horse, fine head and neck. He marched in the ranks of Custer's little army of daring troopers on June 23, 1876, against the confederated Sioux tribes, that terrible day of the massacre of Custer and his men, in the Valley of Little Big Horn, and was shot through the shoulder. He lived, however, to return to Fort Lincoln, whence, after a partial recovery, he was sent to General Custer's father at Monroe, Mich.

Evergreen Dress for Statuettes.

Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of clay men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men, their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.
